HEALING THE WORLD

Prologue

Ah, the graphic novel--such a strange, controversial genre. What is a graphic novel? And, perhaps even more importantly, what isn't? This is probably one of those matter-of-opinion issues that will start with two groups of people engaging in mildly-unfriendly arguments which will escalate to smallish fist-fights which will then explode into a grand sort of war, perhaps even on a global scale. But we don't need to concern ourselves with that right now because we already know the answer to those inflammatory questions in this case: We cannot, beyond a shadow of a doubt, ever know whether this fits the jello-esque definition of a graphic novel, but we can listen to me who, for all intensive purposes, is going to posit that this yearbook does indeed demonstrate some characteristics that would allow it to be part of the fuzzy grey mist-cloud that is the genre "graphic novel.". Well, 'round about now is usually when the personal anecdotes need to be thrown in. I wouldn't want to distance myself from my readers by turning myself into the dreadfully aloof, superhuman narrator, would I? No, I wouldn't So, here you go: I tried to write a graphic novel once. I'm only admitting this to an impressively large number of people because you haven't a clue who I am (or perhaps you think you do, in which case I can assure you that you are as wrong as you've ever been), but I hadn't much hope for myself from the beginning. I could not draw a stick person if you were standing behind me with a sledgehammer telling me to "do or die," you see, and therefore don't really know anything about using pictures not merely to illuminate texts but also to enhance them, telling stories that cannot be told by words alone. That is indeed a very interesting yet still quite alien concept to me, a person who has spent its whole life trying to express itself by writing and writing in its own special way, unaware that quite close by, there was a whole world of people doing the same thing except by drawing in their own special ways. Hannah Sandvold is one of those people. I mean, look at this stuff. It's solid gold. Superheroes here and villains there, beautifully crafted. There's even a superherofragilisticexpialidocious Jimmy B, who you will likely stumble upon quite soon. This is a tale of epic proportions, populated by both excellent drawings and small moments of real life made to sit perfectly still and be completely silent by small boxes packed with technological ingenuity that I cannot really understand. This is the story of a year, my friends. Your year, my year, their year...and whether you are a you, a me, or a them, I hope that one day this maybe-kind-of-graphic-novel can help you remember the pieces of it that were yours.

STUDENT LIFE

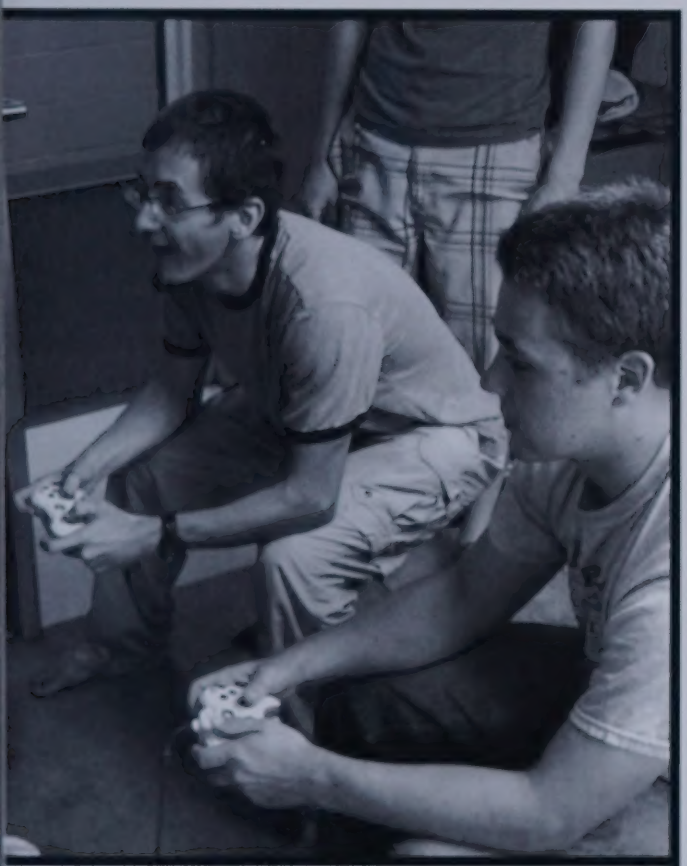
Hannah Bartel, Lavonne Shetler, Hannah Clemmer Anna Beels and Mary Roth gather together in a Yoder dorm room.

Enjoying a sunny fall day in their hammocks outside of the dorms are Lydia Yoder, Erica Grasse and Abe Stuckey.

Students play a game of pick-up sand volleyball, a common pastime on sunny afternoons on the outdoor courts outside of the KMY dorm complex.

Student Housing

aking time to hang out and bond within the Yoder orms are Peter Garry, Aaron Shelly and Brock Gunderkline.



Matt Helmuth and Barrett Donna play video games enthusiasically in their dorm room in their free time.

Students living in the Kratz-Miller-Yoder dorms gather for a Student Life sponsered picnic on the lawn outside of the dorms.

Taking a careful shot is Aaron Goldstein.

Kratz, Miller, Yoder, Coffman, Kulp, Student Apartments, Adelphian, Aurora, Avon, East Hall, Hospital, Hymnal, Kenwood, Valesco, Vita

Hour Afters

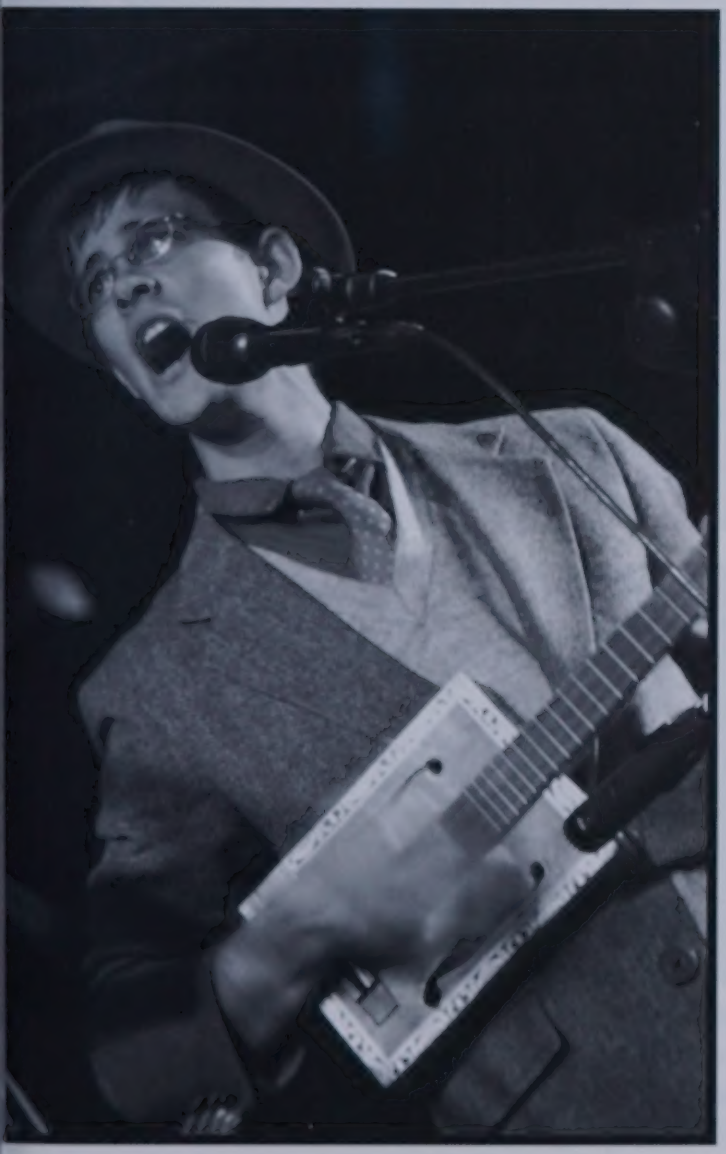
Nate Day's and Aaron Kauffman's Hour After attracts many GC characters to listen and jive to live music. Onlookers seem astonished at the prowess and talent of the two students.

Pope and Steen's Hour After provides a reprise from unnatual amounts of homework for students. Many jump, dance, and sing along to the music, providing assurance that Pope and Steen rock.



Left: Nate Day sings away his nerves and leaves the croud feeling full and wholesome off of his music.

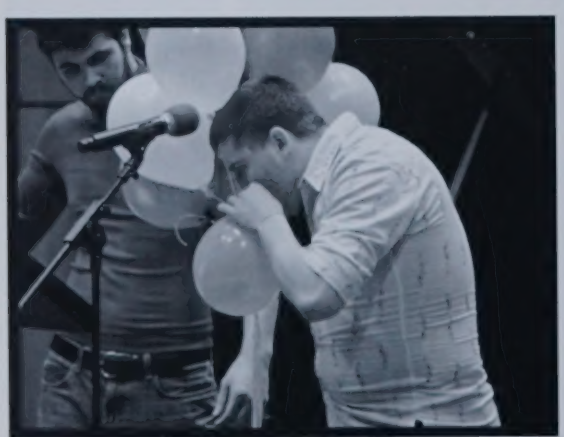
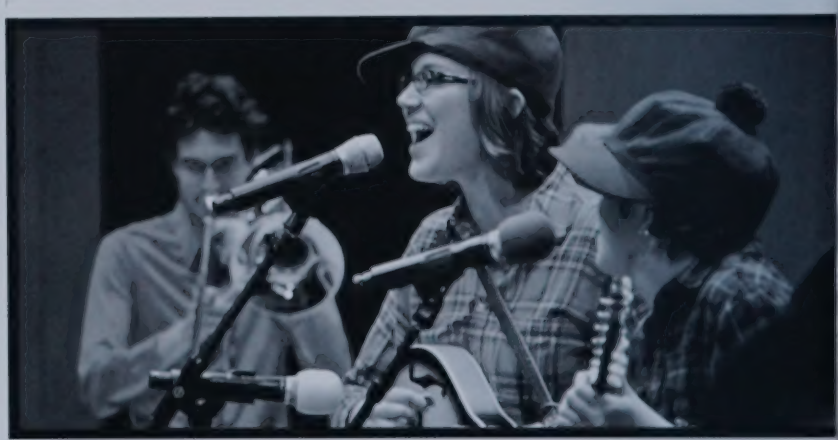
Kickoffs

Goshen Goes to the Moon
A Formal Affair

Fall Kickoff : A group of upperclasmen perform the "Safety Dance" originally performed on the television show Glee. Students performed various types of acts including a cello quartet performing "The Final Countdown", a group of males playing vuvuzelas and a wide aray of original works by the students of Goshen College.



Josh Hertzler and Zach Yordy suck helium and sing "Eye of the Tiger" to the amusement of the student population.



Andrea Detweiler and Sheep Antler Talents reminisce on Jake Snyder sneaking in and sleeping in their room while Aaron Kauffman creeps hard in the background.

Several GC students don their fancy shmancy formal wear for the spring edition of Kickoff.

The men of Miller 1 prepare to make their debut at Fall Kickoff. The group consisted of a variety of instruments like keyboard, xylophone, accordian, guitar, cello, trumpet, vocals and drums. Miller 1 performed an arranged version of "Neighborhood #2 - Laika" by The Arcade Fire.

Lynelle Yoder, Emily Hedrick, Laura Krabill and Lisa Weaver provide insrumentation for a performance in the fall.

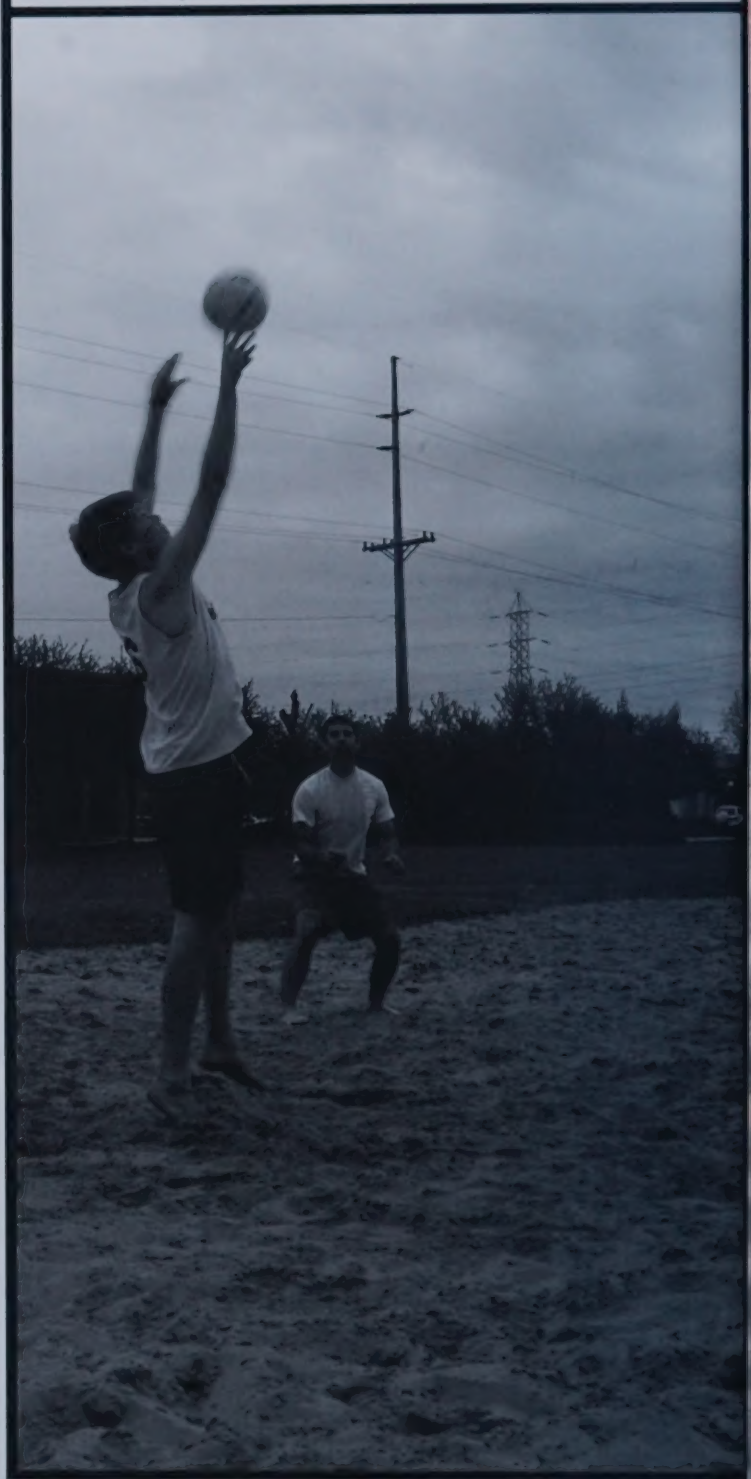
Alejandro Davalos, Raymond Waweru, and Jake Driver perform an arranged piece for vuvuzelas during fall Kickoff.

Adriel Santiago sings a solo in the Dynamics' medley performance in the fall rendition of Kickoff.

A-league soccer champions Wu-Tang pose in a sexy fashion for the camera.

Jon Hershberger, Stuart Graber and Hans Weaver guard Abe Stucky in a basketball game.

Martin Hofkamp and Jake Shipe play vollyball in the sand pit on a black and white day. It looks like they are having quite a fun time.



Intramurals

Abe Stucky and Hannah Grieser work together to get the ball over the net in a sand vollyball game. Abe looks extremely happy, so goal achieved.

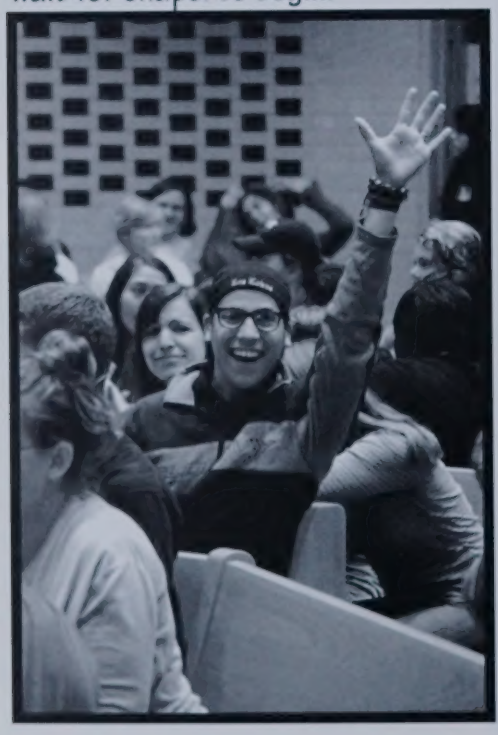
Lacey Wisseman and Unknown Girl battle to the death for the soccer ball in a fall intramural game. Who will win?

Davie Buschert and his opponent brace themselves for a flying disc in a game of Ultimate Frisbee on the green grass outside the RFC.

Chapel goers close their eyes during a service while their pewmate focuses her attention to the front.

Patrick Ressler stares in the direction of the podium during mid-morning chapel.

Below: Sammy Rosario steals the limelight as surrounding students wait for chapel to begin.



Nate Manning leads the student body in worship as he plays piano and sings, before he cut his curly hair.

Chapel

Homecoming Convocation - Cristina Hernandez

Below: KM Resident Director Heather Goertzen speaks in chapel about her journey with faith and God.

Students file down the tunnel formed by fellow Goshenites after Opening Convocation "Christ the Core."

Seniors Allison Yoder, Audrey Engle, Kelly Miller and Annalisa Harder enjoy each other's company before convocation.

Students listen to an intruiging speaker who spills words of wisdom at them.

Convocation

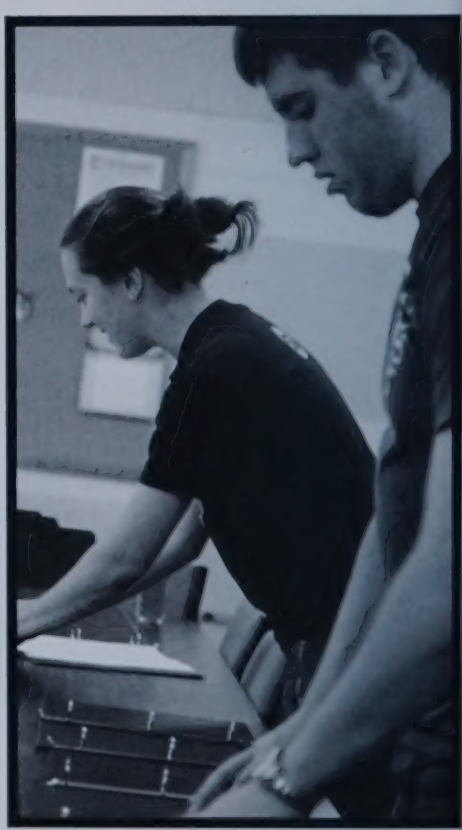
Celebrate Service Day

Marshal Watson and Daniel Barwick move junk from the college campus to be moved to another location. Students worked at various locations throughout the Goshen area, participating in service activities for most of the day on September 22.

Kayla Hooley converses with a resident of Greencroft assisted living community.

Sarah Rody and Jay Mast interact with children from Chamberlain Elementary School.

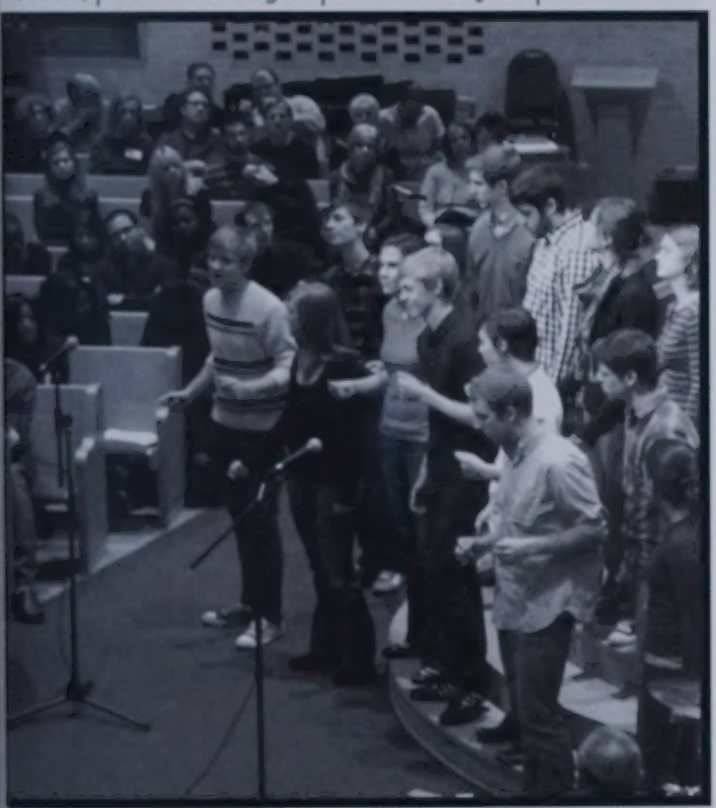
Sarah Lake-Rayburn helps clean out weeds in the parking lot at Bethany Christian High School.



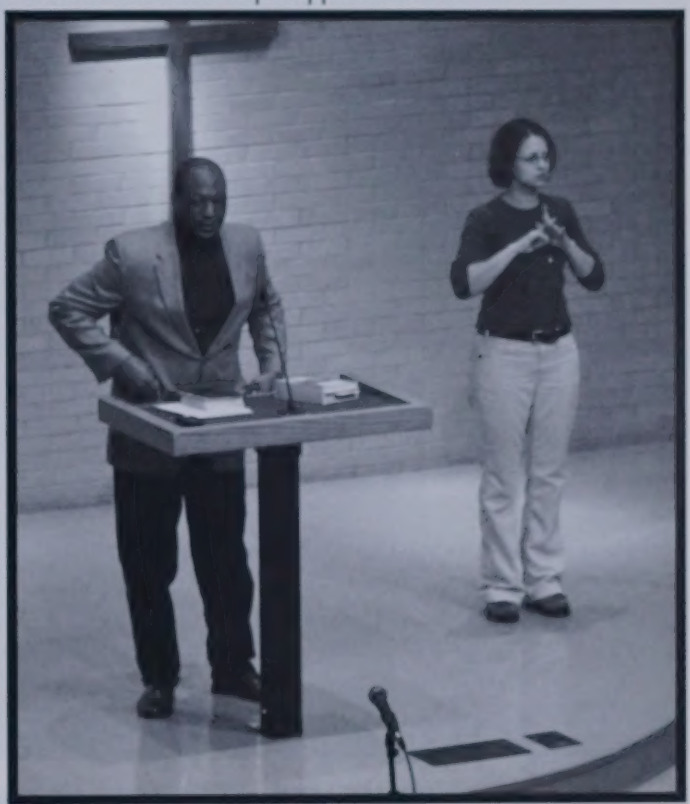
Rebecca Weaver and Zach Yordy organize binders at Ryan's Place, a local grief organization.

MLK Day

The Dynamics, a musical ensemble led by senior Patrick Ressler, performs during a special MLK day chapel.

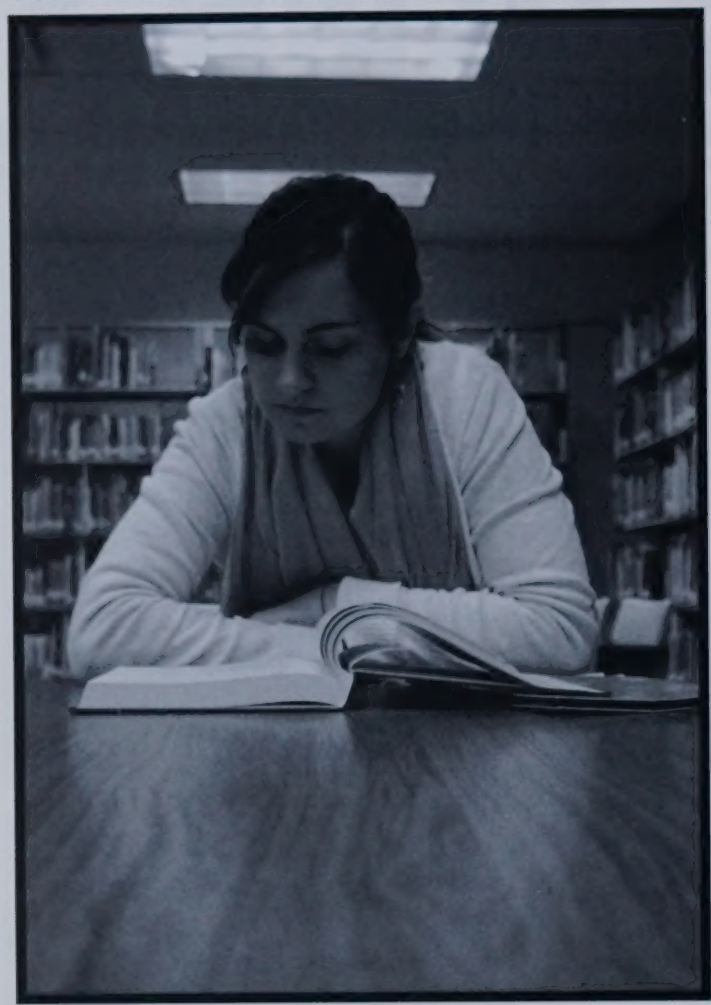


Students celebrated the day off classes with discussions on race and extra chapel opportunities.



Students sit and discuss the values of Goshen College and their relationship with race on campus.

Annika Miller spends time studying in the children's book section in the basement of Good Library.



Enjoying the peace and quiet of her dorm room, Ariel Ropp writes a paper.

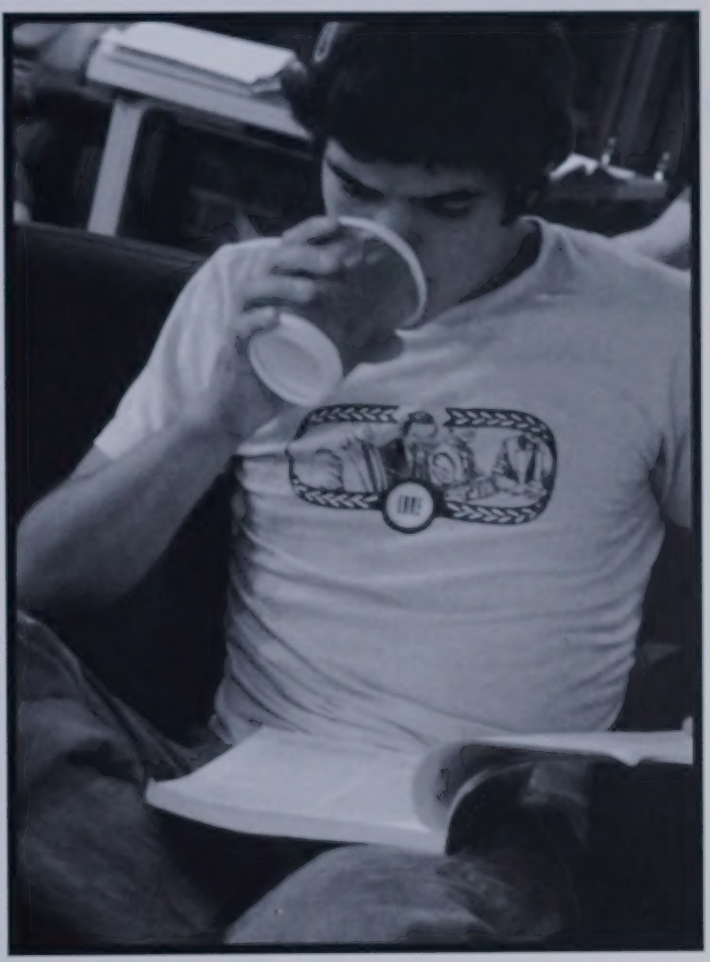
Barrett Donna listens to music while taking notes on his reading.

Molly Kraybill soaks in the sun on a windowsill in the Yoder dorms while studying for her classes.

Studying

Relaxing while he studies in the first floor connector is Peter Garry.

Taking advantage of the studious environment and coffee in Java Junction, Jacob Maldonado Nofziger reads for his Sociology class.



Becca Yoder enjoys the outdoors while catching up on some reading for her classes.

Sara Klassen finds a comfy chair in a Yoder lounge to read.

stud'y [verb] : 1. learn by reading, thinking, etc. 2. investigate

Dining

Java Junction, The Leaf Raker, Westlawn Dining Hall

Haven Schrock prepares a warm beverage as Jacob Maldonado Nofziger observes.

The Leaf Raker is a great aternative for students who do not want the bustle of Westlawn.

Matt Lehman stands behind the Java Junction counter, fufilling the late night wishes of hungry and thirsty college students. He does not look impressed by the current student order.

A group of first years gather on the Java Junction couches to socialize with each other.

Students sit and enjoy a wonderful and delicious meal provided bt AVI Fresh. They are within 10 feet of the awesome salad bar. From the looks on their faces, this is the best meal they've ever had at the Rott.

Students compost their uneaten and unwanted food.

The head chef for AVI Fresh tends to his garden outside.

Mayterm

Brook Hostetter, Hannah Grieser and Billy Funk chat while Aaron Shelly creeps on them from a hammock above.

The girls of Kenwood House enjoy a meal together as they anticipate the end of the school year.

Miriam Gross and Micah Isnogle hang out on the college grounds, soaking in the great Goshen weather.

GCers take advantage of "Funterm" to head to the Chief for the flavor of the week at the ice cream joint.

Jess Sprunger and Lauren Treiber smile at the pile of stuff they collected for the Really Really Free Market.

Students hide out in the connector, avoiding the possibly massive pile of homework they should be doing.

Kristina Lopienski, Julia Miller and Marissa Kauffman gather with friends at the Goshen bowling alley.

Wednesday night worship brings quite a crowd. Below is a picture of some of the weekly attendees. Their happy smiles reflect the fun and joy they share together.

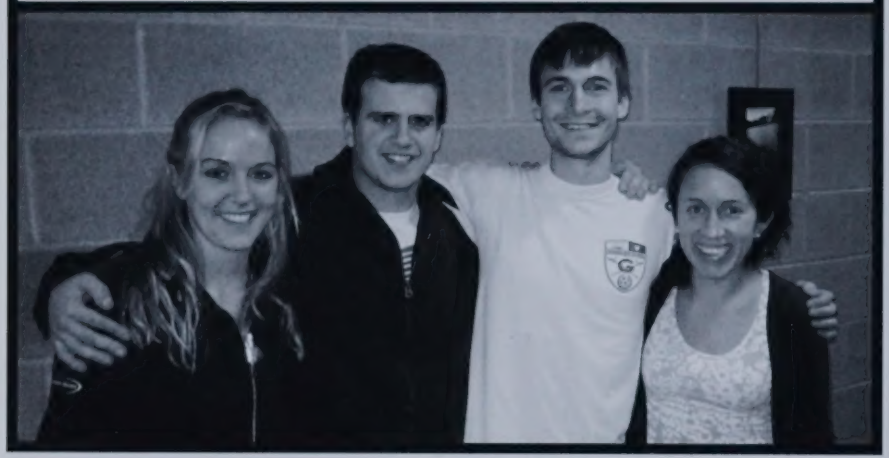
Students take time to play games and get to know one another.

Jess Sprunger and Matt Helmuth are joined by two other students in praising God.

Campus Worship

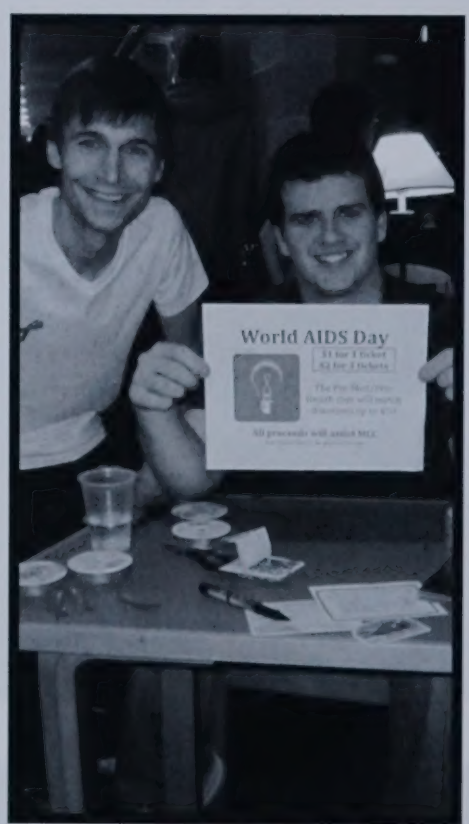
Pre-Med Club

Pre-Med Club officers Clara Sears, Peter Martin, Daniel Driver and Kristen Steiner organized events like the World AIDS Day Fundraiser, which collected over $250 for MCC Generation at Risk.



KBC performs at the World AIDS Day Fundraiser.

A student sings at the World AIDS Day Fundraiser.



Daniel Driver and Peter Martin collect donations at the AIDS Relief Fundraiser.

Students light candles in memory of lives lost to AIDS.

Sons of Liberty

Sons of Liberty doesn't just attract male students, but females too.

Students pose reading literature called "Anything That's Peaceful."

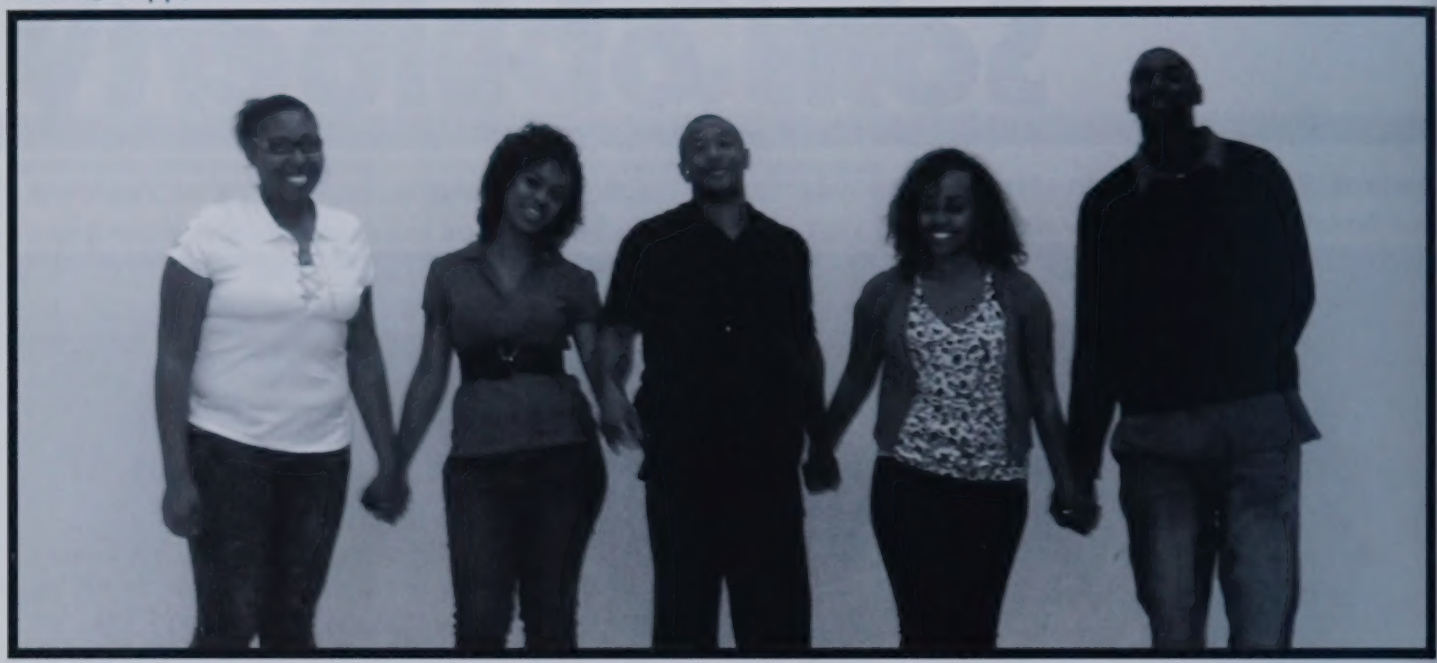
The Sons of Liberty pose in what they believe is a grand fashion, holding books.

BSU officers Jessica Harrison, Lidya Berhane, Jeremy Pope, Betesida Zewde and Daniel Butler hold hands, looking happy and content.



Jeremy Pope and Daniel Butler converse at the BSU Coffeehouse.

BSU members pose with small kiddies while showing off their contourted faces and peace signs.

Michele Fanfair-Steury leads the launch to the moon during Fall Kickoff. She suggests that eveyone hold on to their seats and only go to the bathroom one at a time.

A raggae group performs during a night of treats and music at the "Under the Tent Party", a last hurrah that marks the end of homecoming weekend.

CAC members jump and shout for GC students everywhere who do not have the same cool job as they do.

Students faced the cold weather and gathered in the homecoming tent for food and music during the CAC sponsered "Under the Tent Party" on October 3rd.

CAC members Rachel Nafziger and Jay Mast prepare the students for the next act in Sauder Hall for Kickoff.

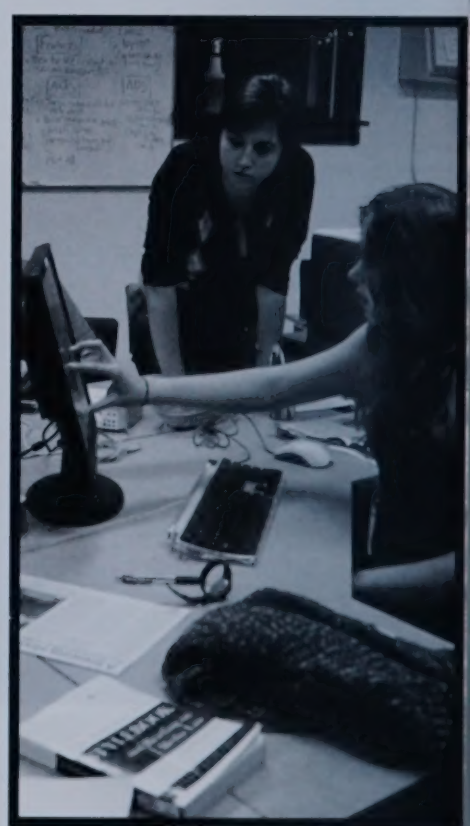
Micah Kulp and Anna Ruth work quickly to meet their deadlines for Goshen College's weekly student newspaper.

An editor hopes for inspiration through a hand-made hat.

Last minute changes in the wee hours.

Laura Schlabach and Ingrid Derstine take a break in the Hub.



Emma Brooks assists with a layout question.

The Globe

Jimmy Cassoday, Benjamin Kelly and Trisha Handrich gloat in NYC with their awards.

Trisha Handrich, student station manager, cheeses about being the Best College Station in ze World! ... or Nation.

The staff of the Globe pose in the station, most likely cramped due to the small size of the building.

This spring, the Pax Club set up a fence across campus to enlighten students about the wall in Israel/Palestine.

Becca Yoder carries a bucket to help build the fence across campus.

Kate Friesen helps put up the fence as Becca Yoder looks on.

Ross Weaver, French Professor Kathleen Massanari and Jeff Stoesz sit and reflect in the Prayer Room in the basement of Coffman.

PAX

Sandrine Sanrali throws a smile to the crowd before she dances at the International Student Coffee House.

Tijs Buskermolen and Ross Weaver stand outside the cabin in deep discussion.

Students pose in their garb for the International Coffeehouse in Sauder Music Center with Skip Barnett.

AMBS
Congratulations
from Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminary
At AMBS, students explore God's call, gifted professors prepare Christ-followers for ministry, and graduates are equipped to faithfully serve.

Hope and healing begin here.

Every person, no matter how troubled, is worthy of love and care. For many, hope and healing begin with the programs and services available at Oaklawn.

Oaklawn has served the community since 1962 with the professional skills, innovative programs and empathetic care needed to treat those suffering from mental illness and addictions.
